Parkinson’s Focus Group
2pm, Thursday 12th December

We have developed a smartphone application which can monitor some of the motor symptoms experienced by people with Parkinson’s. We are keen to make the application useful to everyone who uses it, not just researchers, but patients and clinicians alike. We are inviting you to attend a 2 hour focus group at the John Radcliffe Hospital, to try out the application and to hear what you would find most beneficial to get from it. Please get in touch with Francesca to volunteer (details below).

Some example questions to consider:
- What do you like about the application?
- What would be useful to monitor?
- Would monitoring non-motor symptoms be useful?
- How can we check your medications are working?
- How many times a day could you use the application?
- Would medication reminders be useful?
- What information would you find most beneficial?
